

Veterinary Terminology

This is a self-paced class with continuous enrollment

Cost: $35.00

Veterinary terminology is a branch of medical terminology particularly pertinent to the animal world and veterinary medicine. This course will provide the key to unlocking a whole new world of knowledge that will empower you to communicate on a highly technical level about animal medical disorders, disease processes, surgical procedures, and treatments. You will learn terminology that will allow you to read and interpret language in reports, patient charts, husbandry, and other animal health care environments.

This course is intended primarily for those students with a solid background in the biological sciences that need an in depth foundation in veterinary terminology and a comprehensive review of animal systems. It forms the ideal foundation for students intent on a career as a veterinarian, veterinary laboratory technician, or in a veterinary office, clinic or hospital. This class will provide you with the skills you need to become an effective communicator in the highly technical world of veterinary medicine.

No text book purchase is required. Online references have been provided. The student is expected to read all 23 lessons, and take the associated quizzes and exams. In addition, there are assignments to get the most benefit from this course. Participation in class forums is also encouraged and rewarded.
